Communicate with parents

Meet Doug Smith, Social Studies Teacher at EdisonLearning

"What I like to do at the beginning of a live session is provide some time for students to come in and say hello to each other. I notice the kids who come to live sessions are really looking for that social interaction. They want to be engaged with their peers. So what I have them do is turn on their mics and video at the beginning and give them a couple questions to get them talking."

Our instructional staff are committed to:

Responding to messages within 24 hours.

Returning grading and feedback for writing and speaking assignments, projects, and labs within 72 hours.

Returning grading and feedback for quizzes and exams within 48 hours.

Providing response to academic interventions within 24 hours.

Meet Alisha Zak, Student Advisor at EdisonLearning

"I'm the primary point of contact for my students— whether that means helping them understand how to structure their day and pace themselves appropriately, or being there to help them get connected with their teacher, or just being someone to talk to about how their day is going.

"Our program is designed to help every student and make sure their needs are being met. You can almost think of me as being a student's learning concierge. Ultimately my job is to make sure my students have the support it takes to be successful online learners and never feel like they are in this alone."
